To Members of the House of Representatives

Memo on the negotiations on inviting investors from Singapore to the "Four Rehabilitation Special Zones" that we propose

Koji Suzuki October 8, 2011

I am sending you a memo from the conference hall of the World Chinese Entrepreneurs Convention as a member of the Singapore Delegation (though I am, of course, Japanese).

* The convention is biennially held. This is my fourth participation since 1997.

The contents of this memo have already been reported to PM Noda and he shares the position with me.

I have been taking part in the four-day World Chinese Entrepreneurs Convention (WCEC) being held in Singapore. Here, I have negotiated with officers of the Singapore government, government-linked corporations, and presidents of Chinese business companies about their possible investments in the Four Special Zones proposed by the Non-partisan Rehabilitation Group, and obtained positive responses from among them.

As a result of my negotiations following my visit to Singapore in August this year, it is now planned that a mission would be sent from Singapore to study their investment in the "Eco-City + Automobile-related New Industry Special Zone" among the four Special Zones. The mission will comprise government officers and investment institutions in Singapore. I would like to ask you for your full participation and cooperation.

I have already reported on the mission to Japan and the projects to PM Noda. He approved them, and so did Miyagi Governor Murai who was seeking a breakthrough project to create employment opportunities for affected Miyagi prefecture.

The "Economic Hub Development Promotion Group (2008-2010, chairman: MP Yoshihiko Noda) and the Bill for Basic Economic Hub Development Act" are strongly supported by the representatives of the delegations and governments attending the Convention.

The "Non-partisan Rehabilitation Group" (2011 -) which was formed on the base of the above group proposed the "Four Rehabilitation Special Zones." When these projects attract investments from the world and be carried out as "national projects for the rehabilitation and revitalization of Japan," it will demonstrate that Japan's participation in TPP will be a right choice.

This strategy resembles the promotion style of the bilateral national project of "Tianjin Eco-City" in China. For this project, the Singapore government is mobilizing investments and implementing developing together upon signing a Free Trade Agreement with the Chinese government (Prime Minister Wen Jiabao).
